What The Owners Say

It may interest you to know that the tent performed to my entire satisfaction and as a rain and mildew proof tent it is there, for if a tent ever had its quality tried this one did on the first trip, and the ventilation is all that any one could ask.

I have used this tent on several week end trips since, all of which have been more or less rainy, and I am convinced that a better tent was never made. K. T. B.

Seeing your advertisement in Outdoor Recreation reminds me of the first tent that I bought of you in 1922 and I thought maybe you would be interested to know that it is still in fair condition and giving good service although I have toured something over 123,000 miles and used it continuously, one winter in California and last winter in Florida, eleven and six months respectively. I think it was among if not the first umbrella tents that you attempted to make.

Other umbrella tents that I ordered for others, since, have all given good service and satisfaction and are still being used. C. W. B.

Thousands of Satisfied Users

The tent is a daily source of joy and satisfaction, and we are the envy of other tourists at every camp we visit. The more we see of other tents the better we like our own. J. C. C.

Of course "to see" one of your Lakeside Cottages is to buy it, and I was so well pleased with it that I am having one sent out immediately and if it "works out" the way I think it will I am going to get a couple more. E. C.

Last night, one of those Texas winds arose, and our little "house" was put to a severe test. However, not a particle of damage was done, although many another kind of tent would have been actually ruined.

J. W. B.

Having used one of your Automobile Tents for the past two summers, I can highly recommend them for summer tourists as they are light in weight. I know they will keep one dry regardless of how hard it rains as I have been through a cloudburst and came out without a drop of water coming through to mar our happiness. L. A. Mc.

No Better Tents Are Made

We have used our tent and like it very much. We went thru one terrible wind, rain and electric storm at Sault Ste. Marie. In the morning trees were uprooted, tents, blown over, bedding wet and two tents near us were torn in pieces. Our U. S. "Outodoor" stood perfectly rigid and we were dry.

We have demonstrated our tent to several prospective tent buyers and hope we have helped to make sales. G. E. C.

While enroute to Florida some time ago I saw in one of the camps we stopped at, a tent which I liked very much and was told you were the manufacturers. It is the same type as the one I own now of the poleless or umbrella type. The difference being that to erect mine requires the assistance of a second person while yours was handled by one man very easily.

If you will be kind enough to send me one of your catalogs and prices I will appreciate it. E. C. M.

The Outodoor "Special"

A Real Outodoor PRODUCTS Umbrella Tent

Pole-Less and Centerpole Style

A Tent for the Motor Camper at a Popular Price

When planning a motor camping trip, there are two essential things to consider seriously, first your automobile—it must be in tip top condition. Next your tent, this must be one that you can feel confident will keep you dry and give you protection under all weather conditions.

A Tent That You Can Trust

The "Outodoor Special" is a tent that will give you maximum service and protection. It is constructed of a fabric that has been perfected by us after forty years of tent building. It is waterproofed to give you real protection against the elements. The tent is light in weight, compact, but sturdy and strong.

In the "Outodoor Special" are built-in many comfort adding features, as the large bobinette window with a storm flap that can be raised or lowered from the interior; the sliding bobinette door that keeps out flies and mosquitoes; the sliding storm door;—a new improvement, that absolutely insures against rain seeping or blowing in; a high threshhold that gives you a feeling of security; a sewed-in water-proofed floor that permits keeping the tent neat and clean at all times; a box awning that adds to the attractivenes of the tent and that gives you a fine front porch; to this awning, side curtains may be attached to give an additional room when needed (see below).

The framework of this fine tent is made of galvanized steel, welded tubing—the poleless assembly is the lightest and strongest that is manufactured. (See page 7.) All corner poles and awning poles are telescopic and the umbrella assembly is collapsible, so that the longest length is 51" and when the tent is packed and placed on the running board of your car, you can open the doors right over it. The centerpole for the pole tent is jointed for easy packing and has a sliding sleeve attachment with umbrella arms. This sleeve can be adjusted by a clamp to any position on the centerpole.

The contraction and expansion of canvas due to weather conditions is easily and quickly controlled on the inside by a single operation on the adjustable frame work. In case of rain the tent may be loosened on the poleless frame by simply moving the arm adjustment up or down and on the pole tent by simply adjusting your sliding sleeve. (See page 7.) No more running out into the rain to loosen guy ropes—this tent for convenience and comfort cannot be equalled. It is quality all through—tent comes packed neatly in a waterproofed bag complete with telescopic steel galvanized awning poles, all metal stakes, and awning guy ropes, ready to set up. Curtains for the awnings may be had at a small additional cost.

De-Luxe The Tent of Tents

The First and Finest "Poleless" Tent Ever Built

The Original Umbrella Tent with the Many Patented Improvements

In every commodity there is always one outstanding leader that patterns all competition—The "Outodoor DeLuxe"—the tent of tents has been copied and copied, but like a Rolls Royce it has never been equalled.

If you are looking for a neat trim tent that is light in weight and quality throughout, you will want the DeLuxe.

The DeLuxe is made of an army specification duck, scientifically waterproofed and mildewproofed—it gives real protection against the elements. All sewing and general workmanship on the tent is of the very finest and is performed by operators with years of experience—they are experts in their line.

The tent possesses many features, such as a special cot transom. (See page 7), special waterproofed floor, patented sliding bobinette screen door and patented sliding storm door. These doors have entirely revolutionized camping for they give absolute protection. The 4-inch drop around the awning adds to the neat appearance of the tent and insures the keeping out of rain when side curtains are used in conjunction with the awning.

Waterproofed floors and telescopic steel galvanized awning poles are included in the equipment of this tent. All packed neatly in a waterproofed bag.

POLELESS FRAME

A feature of this tent, the no center pole frame, is one of the lightest and strongest that is made today. All parts are telescopic and adjustable so that when the tent is packed, the longest length of poles and tent is 51". The umbrella framework allows for adjustment of the tension on the canvas during weather changes. No going out into the rain to adjust guy ropes. All this can be done by the simple adjustment of the umbrella frame from the inside. All parts are galvanized to resist rust. A lady can handle this tent with ease.

CENTERPOLE TYPE

This same tent with the same construction can be had with a steel centerpole and umbrella arms with all the adjusting features of popular umbrella tents. (See page 7.) Many campers prefer this type of tent because of the high quality tent at a lower price. Entire framework is galvanized to resist rust—light and easy to handle.

Here's Why Outodoor Tents Are Comfortable And WHY They Are Easy to Erect

The De Luxe Cot Transom

One of the finest comfort adding features to tent life is the cot transom which is found exclusively in the "Outodoor DeLuxe" tents. It is the last word in tent ventilation. It may be left open in rain or shine—it is suitable for all weather conditions. This transom provides approximately 2,000 square inches of ventilation. Bobinette strongly reinforced at regular intervals with strong webbing keeps out all insects and flies. The cot transom is equipped with an adjustable awning with guy ropes which may be guyed to an angle. Tie strings are provided so that the transom awning may be rolled up and neatly tied over the transom window or dropped down and fastened rigidly, thus assuring positive protection when required. Short awning poles may be used with this awning, however, they are not required and are therefore not furnished.

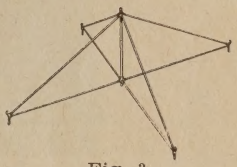

Fig. 3

The Easy Operating Poleless Frame

The poleless framework in the "Outodoor" Poleless tent is the most practical and sturdy framework ever used in a tent. It is exceptionally strong, light in weight and easily handled—a feature so important to every camper.

Figure 1—shows the umbrella framework collapsed. The corner poles are telescopic and when ready for packing, the longest length is 51". The corner pole framework is made of telescopic galvanized steel tubing and the top of galvanized steel rods so as to resist rust.

Figure 2—you will note the umbrella frame has been partly opened by sliding the automatic brake down the center arm.

Figure 3—shows the umbrella frame entirely opened. The lower cross rods of the umbrella frame are hinged at the four corners of the tent hip and to the automatic brake which slides in a diagonal position on the center rod. This brake holds the lower or cross arms rigid at any point on the rod. The raising of this brake contracts the canvas while the downward motion makes the canvas taut, this allows for the adjustment of canvas and eliminates the necessity of going out of the tent during a rain storm to loosen up guy ropes to keep stakes from pulling out due to the shrinking of canvas.

The Simple Centerpole Assembly

The steel centerpole assembly that we supply with the "Outodoor" tents is probably the most simple to operate although it is the lightest and strongest on the market. The DeLuxe and Gibralter tent have a sectional galvanized steel centerpole upon which a sliding sleeve operates. To this sliding sleeve are attached the umbrella arms. The sliding arrangement which fastens by a friction lever permits the loosening or tightening of the fabric, depending on weather conditions, from the inside of the tent by simply moving the sleeve up or down on the center pole and eliminates the necessity of going out during rainy weather and loosening up guy ropes.

On the "Leader" and "Roamer" umbrella tent a 2-piece wood centerpole is furnished and a sliding sleeve adjustable to a wood pole is furnished, the principle of the operation is similar to that of the friction sleeve furnished on the steel pole.

The pole and poleless equipment furnished with "Outodoor" tents is probably the finest on the market today. Patents are pending on all the various features of this equipment. Our effort has been to make it easy for you to erect your tent and at the same time give you that protection and strength that is necessary during the heaviest rain and wind storms and ordinary road abuse.

The "Lake-Side" Outodoor PRODUCTS Cottage

Here is a very wonderful cottage for your summer lot at the lake or river or on your lawn as a guest house. This cottage is distinctly portable being made of unit panels 5′ or 6′ in width and 6′ high, of very rigid construction built to withstand storms. The frame is made of kiln-dried lumber. The bottom of each sectional panel is fitted with weatherproof wallboard, and the top is equipped with galvanized screening. Each section is equipped with an independent outer sliding panel, covered with a high grade canvas. The panel is operated from the inside of the cottage by means of a rope and pulley, making it possible to place these outer sliding panels in any perpendicular or horizontal position desired. For example: During the day, on the shady side of the house, the sliding panels can be completely lowered and on the sunny side, they can be adjusted as an awning. It is this panel arrangement, from inside adjustments that has placed the "Outodoor Lakeside" in a class by itself.

The "Outodoor Lakeside" Roof has a double frame construction of kiln-dried lumber, rigidly bolted to side and end panels. Over this double framework a high grade of canvas, attractive in color is placed and is fastened by means of a batten inserted into canvas pockets at extreme edges of eaves and ends. The purpose of the double roof is obviously to keep out rains and also the intense heat of the summer. The fly, or second roof, is raised 6″ above the roof proper, thus allowing plenty of room for air circulation. This fly extends out approximately 10″ all around the cottage, forming eaves which throw the water from the walls. For a summer cottage that will give service for many years and that is simple and quickly put up, the "Outodoor Lakeside" cannot be equalled.

If you have a lot at the lake or on the river somewhere, you will want one of these beautiful "Lakeside" cottages. If you already have a summer home the "Lakeside" cottage will prove a wonderful guest home. Makes an excellent Lunch Room or Dining Room as it is insect proof.

A chemical toilet can be had for this cottage. See page 31.

For a garage tent, see page 31.

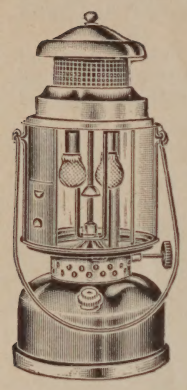
The Outodoor Camp Lantern



All the latest improvements are embodied in this lantern. The lighting marvel for outdoor use in City, Town or Country. Unaffected by high winds, rain, snow or sleet. It can be carried right through the fiercest storm.

Used extensively by warehousemen, night watchmen, liverymen and hotel keepers. Just the thing for campers, travelers, hunters and sportsmen. Popular for Chautauquas, Camp Meetings, Shows and Carnivals. Splendid for street lighting in small towns and resorts.

These lanterns are very popular because of the ease with which they light. A lighted match is held directly under the heat valve, thus heating the generator tube. When the match is nearly burned out, open the valve a trifle and light the mantles. The heat in the mantles completes the generating. No more burning the fingers or lighting a half a dozen matches. One match does the trick.

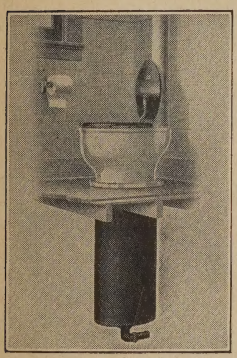
CHEM-O-LET Self-Draining Chemical Indoor Toilets

For the Summer Home and for the Farm

Something new—something different—just the thing you have been looking for.



Type "A" Chem-o-let

The Chem-o-let Chemical Toilet can be installed in any home, in almost any spare closet or room. It requires no skilled labor—simply saw a hole in the floor for the tank, cut a small hole through the ceiling and roof for the ventilating pipe, and run a pipe from the bottom of the steel tank into an old rain barrel, buried in the ground outside. The average cost of installation is very low.

The Chem-o-let is thoroughly sanitary and is self-draining—there is no emptyirg by hand. In this respect the Chem-o-let differs from other types of so-called chemical toilets that involve the disagreeable chore of frequent emptying by hand—which is almost as great a nuisance as the outhouse which they displace. All this is eliminated by the Chem-o-let.

The Chem-o-let comes in two types, Type "A," which is of a special fine design of a highly glazed white vitreous china bowl and suited for the permanent country home or for the farm.

Specifications Type "F" Chem-o-let is of a more simple type, as can be noticed from the illustration, and is especially well adapted for the smaller summer cottages and also for the farm.
